HOW DOES THIS PROGRAM HELP?

Some older people need extra, intensive support to access aged care services and other supports in the community. In these situations, a care finder may be able to help.

Care finders is a free service for Gold Coast residents. It supports vulnerable people – who have no one else who can support them – to learn about, apply for and set up support services.

If someone requires this support, they can be connected with a dedicated care finder who will visit them, usually in person, at their home or another place they would like to meet. They will ask questions to understand the person's situation and support them to work through the steps to address their needs.

A CARE FINDER CAN HELP SOMEONE WITH:

- talking to My Aged Care (on their behalf if needed) and arranging an assessment, attending and providing support at the assessment
- finding and short-listing aged care providers in their area, completing forms and understanding aged care service agreements
- checking-in once services are up and running to make sure everything is acceptable
- problem-solving other challenges and connecting to supports in the community, such as health, mental health, housing and homelessness, drug and alcohol services and community groups.

WHO IS ELIGIBLE?

Care finders specifically help vulnerable older Australians who need intensive assistance to access aged care and other supports.

To receive care finder supports, a person is:

- isolated and does not have a carer or support person they feel comfortable to act on their behalf and
- eligible for government-funded aged care.

Care finders support people who:

- may have difficulty communicating because of language or literacy challenges
- find it difficult to understand information and make decisions
- may be reluctant to engage with aged care or government
- may be left in an unsafe situation if they do not receive services.
