Recovery Wellness Program

Building resilience and strength

The Recovery Wellness Program (RWP) is a 12-month recovery psychosocial support program that aims to improve the self-management and wellbeing of people who are at risk of homelessness, reside in a boarding house, in supported accommodation, hostel or crisis accommodation.

The program offers recovery-based support that strengthens community connections and increases positive relationships by building on the resilience and strength found in each individual.

Who is RWP program for?

The program is for people who are:

- 18 years of age or older
- Linked with Metro North or Metro South mental health services
- Residing in a boarding house, supported accommodation, hostel, or crisis accommodation
- Not on an active NDIS package.

How to refer to the program?

Referrals must come from a Queensland Health mental health clinician. If you're already linked with Metro North or Metro South mental health services, ask your clinician about a referral to RWP.

For general enquiries, contact our friendly team.
